NUMB. 3155

THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1744.

Constantinople, March 25.

LL the Rumours that prevail in their Turns here, and are afterwards written from hence as News, into Foreign Countries, are, generally speaking, mere Romances. The Ministry receive all the Dispatches from Abroad, and then dispose the Substance of them into such a Form as best serves their Purposes and Projects. At present they give out, that the Shah Nadir's insisting to send an Officer to Meet with the Persian Pilgrims, renders a Peace impracticable; because this is a Prerogative the Porte never can give up. We incline, however, to consider this in somewhat different Light. We perceive, that the Ministry here seem to doubt the Shah Nadir's Sincerity, even tho' he rais'd the Siege of Bagdat to convince them of it; from whence we infer, that, in reality, they suffer the Bashaw of Bagdat. It is farther evident, that the Reason of deposing the late Khan of the Tartars, was from a Suspicion, that he intended to withdraw his Subjects from their Obedience to the Porte. Now some folks question, if the deposing this Prince be a Remedy equal to the Disease; or whether the new Khan may not affect Independency as well as the old one. Add to this, that the declaring the last Grand Vizier Achmet, Bashaw Straskier of Asia, and thereby putting him at the Head of the Army of the Empire, has an Appearance of fulfilling the old Scheme, of redressing the Disorders of the State, by the timely Application of an armed Force. All our Court is at present paid to the Luzzians; and they actually talk of a new Treaty of Commerce, and a perpetual Alliance between the two Empires.

Moscow, April 22. It is very certain, that her Imperial Majesty applies herself with the greatest Assiduity to Affairs of State; and it is no less visible, that there never was a wiser or more steady Administration, since the Death of her Imperial Majesty's Father, Peter I. of notorious Memory. The first Point pursued, is the settling the Succession in the House of Holstein; and with a view to that, the Marriage of his Imperial Highness with the Princess of Anhalt Zerbst, will take Place, as soon as that between his Royal Swedish Highness, and the Princess Ulrica of Prussia, is celebrated; for which great Preparations are making at Stockholm. The next Point which occupies our Councils, is the extending the Commerce of the Empire, and increasing its Naval Force. In regard to this, Orders have been sent to assemble, in Summer, a numerous Fleet in the Baltic; and on the other, Carpenters, Shipwrights, and Engineers have been ordered to the Caspian Sea, for restoring the Wet Docks, Yards, &c. for Shipping. Neither is the Connection between this Empire and other European Powers, neglected, or forgot. Her Imperial Majesty takes all imaginable Care to cultivate a good Correspondence with Sweden; and to mollify the deep Sense the People have of their Losses, in the two last Wars, by giving them considerable Advantages in Trade. She likewise unites herself strongly to the Courts of Berlin and London, and thereby provides, so effectually, for the Peace and Support of her Government, that she has all the Reason in the World to promise herself a happy and prosperous Reign.

Madrid, April 27. The French and Neapolitan Ministers have frequent Conferences with ours, to which the Minister from Genoa is, of late, constantly invited; whence it is conjectured, that Republick either has declared, or will speedily declare, in favour of the Combined Crowns. After all the immense Sums this War has cost us, the Court is resolved on a new Augmentation, consisting of 30 Battalions, and 24 Squadrons; which are to receive Horses and Arms as they arrive at their Accisions. A new Ministry will be quickly form'd, which, in every Respect, will resemble that at Versailles. Cardinal Teatin is in greater Confidence with the Court than Fleury ever was; the warm Measures of his present Eminence being more to the Gout of the Ministry, than the Heaviness of his Predecessor; who was always occupied in finding out Reasons for not doing, what, in reality, he never intended. The Court has lately assigned a Fund of 450,000 Pieces of Eight, for repairing and augmenting the Navy; and this Morning an Order was issued for equipping every Man of War and Frigate in the Ports of this Kingdom, and putting them immediately to Sea. There never was seen, since the administration of Alberoni, so great Application to Armaments by Land and Sea, as at present; tho' the Nation, in general, suffers extremely, and our Trade is, in a manner, absolutely gone.

Geneva, May 7. It is excessively difficult to obtain any true Account of the State of Affairs in Piedmont; all we can learn with Certainty, follows. The Piedmontese Retrenchments at Montalban were as strong, as well furnished with Artillery, and as gallantly defended, as any ever were. They were seven Foot high, five Foot thick, and when attacked, had 133 Pieces of Cannon mounted, with 14 Battalions of Foot behind them. The French Troops (according to the Piedmontese Accounts) behaved very well, but the Spaniards very poorly; it was the Personal Courage of the Prince of Conti, who was wounded, that did all. The Forces marched to the Attack 16,000 strong; they took Possession of the Lines next Day with 10,895 Men. On the other Hand, out of 7000 Piedmontese, only 3500 embarked under the Protection of Admiral Matthews. The French have discovered, and dug up, 102 Pieces of Cannon, which the Defendants had buried before their Retreat; and, of which, 23 belonged to the Rochester Man of War.

Venice, May 9. A Courier from Prince Lobkowitz left, in his Way to Vienna, the following Abstract of his Highness's Proceedings here. That as soon as he received Orders from his Court, to pursue the Invasion of the Kingdom of Naples with the utmost Vigour, he cause a Body of Horse to advance towards Tivoli and Monte Rotondo, in order to make the Enemy believe he intended to enter the Country by the Pass of San Germano. This Stratagem had the design'd Effect on the King of the Two Sicilies, the Duke of Modena, and the Count de Gages, who all agreed, it would be most Expedient to withdraw the Forces from the Abruzzo, to defend the Terea di Lavoro; which Advice was immediately put in Execution. Upon this, Prince Lobkowitz caused two Bridges to be thrown instantly over the Tronto. In the Night, between the 25th and 26th of last Month, he caused 1000 Horse and Foot to pass the River, and take Post at Perra di Colonella and Contraguardia; on the 26th a considerable Body of Troops passed to support these; and the three following Days the whole Army pass'd; since when, the Austrian Hussars, and other Irregular Troops, have raised immense Sums, by Way of Contribution, in Abruzzo. The Count de Gages, on the 29th, detached a great Body towards the Tronto, and pressed his Sicilian Majesty, and the Duke of Modena, to venture a Battle. As this Account may be depended on, we very impitiously expect further Advices from that Quarter, because we persuade ourselves, it cannot be long before we hear somewhat that must be decisive.

Vienna, May 9. It is said, that at the Request of two powerful Princes, a very moderate Plan of Peace has been proposed on the Part of this Court, to his Imperial Majesty, which, if he does not accept, it is resolved to attack his Forces under the Cannon of Philadelphia. It is as much wonder'd, that Coloni did not stand the extraordinary, as that he bore, with so much Constancy, the ordinary Torture; whereas he made an ample Confession, as soon as the Instruments were shewn him. As soon as it was read to him, and he had signed it, he said, I do not confess through Fear, but because my Denial would do no good; For to what End should I conceal those, who have accused themselves and me? About Thirty Persons are actually in Custody for this Conspiracy. Twenty are fled, and Three have made voluntary Informations. The Forces that are to be left in the Electorate of Bavaria, consist of 35,022 Men; viz. Eight Regiments of Foot, of 1800 each; Eight of Cavalry, of 800 each; and 14,222 Hussars, Croats, and Pandours; which are to be thrown into four Camps.

Philadelphia, May 11. On the 6th, 7th and 8th of this Month, the Commissioners, appointed for that Purpose, reviewed the Imperial Troops that are encamped here, and found them, as they have certified, in perfect Order, and every Regiment and Company complete. According to this authentick List, the whole of the Army, Horse and Foot, consists of 22,600 Men. We expect, that they will be very speedily joined by 10,000 Hessians in Imperial Pay, and all the German Forces in French Pay, which are computed at 12,000; and then the conjunct Imperial Army will actually consist of 45,600 fighting Men. We shall soon see whether this be Matter of Fact, or the Dreams only of the deluded Court of Frankfort.

As did also two of his Majesty's Yachts, with a great many Officers on board, for the same Place.

They are convoy'd by five Men of War.
